An article featured on the BBC news website covered a story regarding health services in North Wales.

The North Wales Community Health Council (CHC) wants to hear about people's experiences of in-patient services. The CHC are conducting a survey and people in north Wales are being urged to have their say on mental health services further to the publication of the Ockenden report.

Chief officer for the North Wales CHC, Geoff Ryall-Harvey said 'One of our roles is to keep an eye on the health services in North Wales. We hope that the results of this survey will provide us with a clear picture of people's experiences.'
